

Bold & Brassy

The huge bathing area is a well fitted, state-of-the-art enclosure providing all the latest luxuries in bathing.

The bathing apparatus is naturally the centre piece in this bathroom. Keeping the basin counter simple and subdued is the safest bet. However, the concave edges of the mirror frame reflect the curvature carved out of the space by the cubicle.

Treacle Trickle

The use of orange mosaic to demarcate the shower area also helps to create a bold focus. The use of light and dark in the tiling helps add virtual height.

The orange strip in the flooring forms a very important visual aid as it denotes the change in levels, while tripping over in imitation of a trickle of syrup.

Varsha Jain

Varsha Jain of Chennai is one such designer who has almost perfected the recipe. Sure, there is an occasional cultural manifestation – but she is well on her way to getting the mixture right. The most interesting and captivating feature of her work is the colour highlights that she uses on free-standing walls in a living-dining area, or around wardrobes in the bedroom. The walls she picks up and the colours she chooses lend a unique vibrancy to the space.

Cultural forces at work in an otherwise modern setting

Nice co-ordination of colours, materials and textures

The one-sided kitchen

If well planned, most requirement of a kitchen can be accommodated on a single wall. This is a good example of the fact.

Few kitchens in this day and age are bold enough to provide a counter space along one predominant side as this kitchen does. The colour balance and massing of its cabinet, counter and gadget spaces are all along the one wall and arranged for maximum effect.

The remainder of the kitchen space is used for all functional requirements.
